With the "best pastrami in America," Pastrami King is better than ever. In 2002 Abe Yamali opened this Merrick restaurant after closing his wildly successful Pastrami King on Queens Boulevard. Abe's son Joe now continues to carry on his vision and operate the business. In Newsday's 2008/2009 Fun Book, the Pastrami King was selected by Newsday's food critic Joan Reminick as the top pick for having the best sandwiches on all of Long Island.

"Pastrami King in Merrick beckons the hungry with its mile-high pastrami sandwiches . . . the meat is warm, lush and peppery, piled high on fresh crusty rye." We couldn't agree more with Ms. Reminick when she states, "it would be a shondah if Pastrami King served anything less than a stellar pastrami sandwich. In fact, it's generous, succulent and entirely satisfying – as are the corned beef and tongue sandwiches."

Pastrami King's diversified menu features traditional delicatessen favorites like chicken soup with feathery light matzo balls, stuffed derma, stuffed cabbage, flavorful chicken fricassee and hearty beef goulash. Chopped chicken liver, assorted homemade knishes, potato pancakes, house-cut freshly made French fries, cheese blintzes and delicious noodle pudding are unparalleled. Old fashioned seltzer bottles are on hand and frothy egg creams make you fondly remember days of the past. Pastrami King also has an exciting contemporary menu with eclectic entrees including trendy gourmet salads, designer steaks and burgers, mouth watering daily specials, roast fresh turkey with all the trimmings, fresh fish entrees, pasta entrees and much, much more. Enjoy homemade dishes from delicatessen favorites to artistic contemporary fare in this welcoming, bright 200-seat restaurant that is decorated with paintings, tapestries, framed mirrors, crisp white table linens and comfortable banquettes. Visit the extensive retail shop with a variety of homemade salads, fresh meats, decadent desserts and take home delights. A children's menu is also offered. Come to the Pastrami King and you will be treated like Royalty.
